THE MONARCHIST LEAGUE believes that both history and contemporary experience prove that Monarchy has been, is, and will continue to be, of inestimable value in establishing and maintaining the stability, welfare and dignity of all countries. In Spain, for example, the restoration of the Monarchy ensured a tranquil transition to democracy, and the people of many other countries see a return to Constitutional Monarchy as their way forward to establishing the free society that has been denied under extreme regimes of the Left or Right. The world's most stable nations are Monarchies. The constancy and political impartiality inherent in a soundly based Monarchy secures for its people freedom from civil or military dictatorship and ensures a genuine concern for the welfare of the entire community.

Based in the United Kingdom, the League has Delegates and Groups throughout the world, and unites all who share its belief in the advantages of Monarchy for their nation state.

Like Monarchy itself, the League is independent of any political party or group, and prejudice against any section of the community has no place in its policy or programme. Drawn from many countries and from all walks of life, the subscribers of the League span the whole political spectrum, although many are without any political alignment.

The League's purpose is, quite simply, to support the principle of Monarchy. It represents adherents of differing styles of Monarchy, from Constitutionalists to Absolutists, recognising that differing traditions require differing styles of leadership. Among its subscribers are supporters of different claimants to vacant thrones. The interests of the Monarchist League lie far more in the future than in the past, and it has a high proportion of student subscribers.

The aims of the Monarchist League can be summarised as:-

- (a) To unite support for the monarchical system.
- (b) To work for a better awareness of the advantages of Monarchy.
- (c) To foster respect for Monarchy and to defend those royal prerogatives which enable monarchs to be truly the fount of justice and honour, and to safeguard their peoples from political extremism.
- (d) To liaise with and support monarchist groups throughout the world in the preservation and furtherance of the monarchical ideal.
- (e) To counter unjustified criticism of Monarchy in the media, and from whatever source it may come.

The League publishes a regular journal and other items which cover a wide field, dealing with modern problems of Monarchy, recording and publicising events of interest to monarchists, and keeping subscribers abreast of news from monarchist movements around the globe. The League's publications are read by leading royalists, historians and politicians and are normally issued free to League subscribers and complimentary groups.

As well as receiving the journal and other publications, subscribers have the opportunity to attend our social events, which are always attended by a distinguished gathering, including members of Royal Houses. Subscribers are encouraged to participate in local activities, enabling them to gain greater benefit by meeting and interacting with fellow monarchists. We endeavour to provide advice on how to support the Royal House in which any subscriber has a particular interest. Most important, by joining the Monarchist League, subscribers know that they are helping to defend, sustain and promote mankind's oldest institution - an institution which we all believe to be, without doubt, the finest form of government.

Applications for subscription are welcomed and prospective subscribers are invited to complete and return the application form overleaf, together with the appropriate subscription to:-
